Having a job increases self-esteem, which aids in recovery. A job offers people more choices about what they can buy and where they can live. SE Specialists help secure jobs or schooling based on an individual's skills and interests, regardless of disability.

Who is a good candidate?

If an individual wants to work, their treatment team will provide a referral to an SE specialist. No one is excluded from participation in the program.

When can I get assistance?

Soon after entering the program, SE Specialists work with people to find jobs based on individual preferences, strengths, and experiences.

What happens after I've found a job?

Employment Specialists provide ongoing support as long as the client and employer like.
